

The globally leading, ISO based food safety and quality certification standard

Can FSSC 22000 based certification add value to the safety and quality of the Myanmar food manufacturing sector?

The Challenge of safe, good quality and sustainable food production

Standards for workers condition, fair pay, working hours, no child labour etc

Energy, CO2, water, bio-diversity, animal welfare etc.

ISO 9001 → optional in FSSC

ISO 22000 → FSSC 22000

Lower production costs

Who is responsible for safe food for all?

Private:

- The “upstream” supply chain
- The manufacturer
- The “downstream” wholesaler, caterer and retailers
- Standard owners and certification bodies

Public:

- The national government (food law)
- Official inspection bodies (inspection and maintaining)
- National accreditation bodies
- Research and knowledge institutes
